Michael J. Hoggard Memorial Scholarship

Michael Justin Hoggard, born into a family of educators, was a much-loved young man and the center of his parents' lives. He knew that, relished in it, but refused to take undue advantage of it. Instead he embraced life and excelled academically and athletically. "Hoagie" was a straight "A" student and was always active. He went from Big-Wheel champion of the neighborhood at age two to becoming a dynamo on skis by age six. He loved Pop Warner football but his true love was soccer, at which he excelled. He seemed to want to experience everything now almost with the premonition that he had to cram a lifetime into only a few short years. On January 3, 1994, Michael made a serious mistake in accepting a challenge from another student and drove erratically. It cost him his life.

Michael was a sensitive, caring and kind young man with a gift for friendship. His sense of honor and loyalty instilled trust, and he encouraged his friends to strive for excellence. Michael planned on a career in science, leaning toward environmental engineering. For Michael Justin "Hoagie", there is no better way to commemorate his life than to assist others in attaining the dream of a college education with this scholarship in his name.
